What You Need to Know

The Accessibility Standards for Customer Service, also called the Customer Service Standard, Ontario Regulation 429/07, states what your organization must do to provide accessible customer service to people with various kinds of disabilities.

If you are an Ontario business or organization that provides goods or services, and you have one or more employees, you must comply with the Customer Service Standard beginning in 2012.

What You Need to Do

A Summary of Requirements

1. Set up policies, practices and procedures on providing goods or services to people with disabilities.
2. Try to ensure that policies, practices and procedures are consistent with the core principles of independence, dignity, integration and equality of opportunity.
3. Have a policy on allowing people with disabilities to use their assistive devices.
4. Communicate with a person with a disability in a way that takes into account his or her disability.
5. Let people with disabilities bring their service animals onto the parts of your premises open to the public or other organizations unless this would break another law.
6. Let people with disabilities bring their support persons with them onto premises open to the public or other organizations. If you charge admission for support persons, let people know the fees ahead of time.

7. Let the public know when your facilities or services that people with disabilities usually use are temporarily not available.
8. Train staff, volunteers, contractors and other people who interact with the public, or other organizations on your behalf, to serve people with disabilities. Also provide training to staff who develop policies, practices and procedures on providing goods or services.
9. Set up a process to receive and answer feedback on how you provide goods or services to people with disabilities, including what action you will take on complaints. Make the information about your feedback process readily available to the public.

If you have 20 or more employees, you must also:

10. Document in writing all your policies, practices and procedures for providing accessible customer service and meet other document requirements set out in the standard.
11. Let customers know that documents required under the Customer Service Standard are available upon request.
12. Provide this information in a format that takes into account a person's disability.
13. Submit a report on your organization's progress. See "Reporting Questions" in the next section.

Reporting Questions for the Customer Service Standard

- Private businesses, non-profit organizations, and any other service providers with 20 or more employees must file a compliance report starting in 2012.
